WEIGERT'S SENTENCE.—The motion for a new trial, made on behalf of William II. Weig of who during the present term of the Fayette Cit cuit Court, was convicted of murder, was, o Saturday morning last ovarruled by Judge Good los. The Court reviewed with much minute ness, the various grounds relied upon by the counsel for the defense to sustain the motion; and showed to the satisfaction of everybody pres-ont, that there existed no sufficient ground for ont, that there existed no sufficient ground for granting a new trial.

The motion had been under consideration for several days, and had been discussed during the morning and evening hours of the court, at a great length and with signal ability by the coursel on both sides. The court in the decision of the important question, displayed much learning and ability, characteristic firmess, and firmness. After the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision over-tuling the motion for a second court in the decision of the court, at a great length and the second court in the decision of the court in t After the decision over-ruling the motion for a new irrd was announced, the Court addressed the prisoner, who had all the while been present, in substance as ful ows:

Wm. Weigert, you will stand up. Have you anything to say why the sentence of the law should not be passed upon you? To which the prisoner made some insudible reply: when the Court, after waiting for a few moments proceased to pass sentence upon him, in substance, us follows: You have been tried by an impartial jury of your peers, sworn and empanneled ac-cording to law, upon an indictment found against you for the murder of an acquiintance and fellow citizen. After a hill aint fair investigation of the charge, during which you have had the zealous as istance of able and cloquent counsel, you have been found guilty. There is no evidence addited in your application for a new trial, showing or conducing to show either that in the conduct of the trial any of the requirements of the law have been in the least violated: or that In the verdict of the jury injustice has been done you; but the on contrary, upon a full and fair trial, the proof of your guilt is conclusive, and the jury acting under the law undevidence were compelled to render the verdict of Guiltu: and it would be a gross abuse of the duties of my office to grant you any relief, by giving you a new trial upon the grounds made out and relied upon by your counsel, for this crime of which you have been found guilty.
